Article 24

A student's academic performance may be assessed by the course instructor in accordance with the principles of diversified assessment.

The specific methods of evaluation shall be determined by the instructor and must be recorded in the course syllabus system prior to the start of the course.

Article 25

Student grades shall consist of two components: academic performance and conduct, both graded on a percentage scale.

1. For undergraduate students, a course grade below 60 shall be considered failing, and no credit shall be awarded.
2. For graduate students, a course grade below 70 shall be considered failing, except for make-up courses (which do not count toward graduation credits). The passing grade for the degree examination is 70.

3. The total grade points shall be the sum of all individual course grade points.
4. The semester grade point average (GPA) shall be calculated by dividing the total grade points by the total number of credits.
5. The calculation of the semester GPA shall include grades from failed and repeated courses.
6. Credits and grades earned during summer sessions shall be recorded in the academic transcript and included in the calculation of the graduation GPA; however, they shall not be combined with semester GPA calculations.
7. Graduation GPA:

For undergraduate students: the graduation GPA shall be calculated by dividing the total grade points (including summer session credits) by the total number of credits.

For master’s and doctoral students: the graduation GPA shall be the average of the cumulative semester GPA and the degree examination grade, each weighted at 50%.

All grades mentioned above shall be rounded to two decimal places.
